

The Interdisciplinary Histories Research Cluster brings together scholars from diverse disciplines to work collaboratively on projects that explore our shared and contested pasts, and their implications for the present. It is a grass-roots initiative, seeking to enable research to arise from diverse locations, in diverse modes, from across UBC.

Workshop/Seed Grant Proposals

Winter 2020 & Summer 2021

(September 1, 2020 to 31 March 2021
& April 1, 2021 to August 31, 2021)

The IHRC will provide seed grants/workshop funds in support of activities in Winter 2020 & Summer 2021 that foster research along the lines of the Cluster's interests (see our website for information about our four conceptual strands and our focus on community engagement, pedagogical innovation, and integration with the arts, <https://histories-cluster.ubc.ca/>) Please note that the Cluster cannot fund direct research costs. The Steering Committee will allocate funds in accordance with the number of applications and financial resources available; it therefore may need to offer partial funding for proposed activities. The Committee will prioritize proposals that feature co-sponsorships/the mobilization of multiple funding streams and forms of support. Activities with a public-facing component will also be prioritized. Anyone included in the Cluster community list is eligible to apply for funds through the Cluster to advance their research agenda, and graduate students (with a faculty sponsor) as well as others can initiate activities. Newcomers are welcome.

This Call for Proposals has been revised to support activities to take place in both Winter 2020 (Sept 1, 2020 - March 31, 2021) and Summer 2021 (April 1, 2021 to August 31, 2021).

NEW Winter 2020/Summer 2021 deadline: Before 5 p.m. August 3, 2020
